WISS & Company, LLP Educates Montclair State University Students on IFRS Discussion

Livingston, NJ-March 30, 2010 - On Wednesday March 10, 2010, WISS & Company, LLP joined forces with Montclair State University's Accounting Society to discuss the new convergences to International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS). During the hour long session, Jonathan Katz, CPA, MBA, Audit Supervisor at WISS & Company, LLP educated accounting majors on the effects and changes in the profession and touched upon various topics such as: IFRS, FASB, IASB, the SEC and its roll in its conversion to IFRS, differences between US GAAP and IFRS, and convergence from US GAAP to IFRS. As stated by Katz, "The discussion on IFRS was very well received by Montclair accounting students. These are our future accountants of the world and by gaining an understanding of IFRS, students can now understand its potential impact on their future careers."

Students engaged in a question and answering session to discuss how these new rules and convergences will affect them upon graduation as they make their way into the work force. Regina Bonito, Human Resources Coordinator at WISS & Company, LLP, also attended and shared with students various career options and trends for the future in public accounting.
