Contract Dispute Services

The best thing to do with a contract dispute is avoid it. We have helped contractors and owners meet this objective by designing project management systems and procedures that identify the issues that can lead to disputes and provide a methodology for their resolution. Our expertise is also valuable when disputes do occur. We assist contractors in preparing and asserting their damage claims and owners in defending against such claims.

Given our extraordinary experience with contract claims, as well as contractor accounting systems and methodology, we are ideally equipped for the task of developing and supporting damage calculations and theory. Our professionals have participated in settlement negotiations and testified as expert witnesses in court proceedings and before arbitration panels.

Construction Owner Services

Our construction experience also enables us to help project owners address their construction management challenges. Such services include establishing contracting policies and procedures including procurement methodology, contractor selection criteria, contract administration and audits to determine if amounts billed comply with contract provisions.
