

Engineering Group

Business and industry insight backed by rock-solid experience, expertise and technical knowledge means the Wiss Engineering Group can help your company realize its potential. Based on our in-depth understanding of engineering companies' operations and needs, we can offer the valuable strategic business advice you need to reach your short and long-term business goals.

Professional Oversight — Knowledgeable Insight

Our Engineering practice serves a broad base of well-known and highly respected civil, industrial and mechanical engineers. We actively participate in relevant trade associations and stay current with trends and regulatory changes that could affect your bottom-line results. The questions we ask are relevant, the business advice we offer is proactive and insightful.
